

An aerial photograph of a river scene. A wooden canoe with four people inside is positioned in the center-left. One person is at the bow, another is in the middle, and two are near the stern. To the right of the canoe, a person is standing on a grassy bank, holding a fishing rod. The river flows through a dense forest of green trees and bushes. The water is a dark, reflective greenish-blue.

WHAT TO EXPECT: ATLANTIC SALMON

Prepare for a full day on the river, with a minimum of 8 hours spent on the water. Water levels permitting, you'll float from pool to pool in a 26' or 20' canoe, skillfully navigated by your guide using a traditional wooden pole. In certain circumstance, walk and wade may be preferred. For those seeking the thrill of targeting salmon directly, sight fishing is possible in clear waters, where you can use both swinging wet flies and dead-drifting dry flies to entice these magnificent fish.

During the warmer summer months, particularly in August, we often start early—sometimes as early as 4:30 a.m.—to take advantage of cooler temperatures and maximize your chances of success.

Most of your fishing will take place on the Grand Cascapedia, Petite Cascapedia, and Bonaventure rivers, —each offering an unparalleled experience in the pursuit of one of angling's most coveted species.

IMPORTANT THINGS TO KNOW:

- We're committed to the conservation of Atlantic Salmon, all catches are carefully released back into the water.
- Quebec's regulations allow for the release of up to 2 Atlantic Salmon per day, and if you reach this limit, you can take pride in being "fished out" and head back to enjoy the lodge.
- To safeguard the wellbeing of the fish, we pause fishing when water temps exceed 68°F (20°C).
- We fish with barbless, single hooks. Weighted flies are not permitted and cannot be on your person.
- Quebec's rivers operate on a unique beat system, with access to specific sectors assigned daily through a lottery. This means you may not always get to fish the most coveted waters, but it also ensures that each day brings the excitement of exploring new and untouched stretches of the river.
- Anglers are also expected to honor a traditional rotation system, ensuring everyone has the opportunity to enjoy equal time on the water.

WHAT TO EXPECT: STRIPED BASS

Your day on the water will span a minimum of 8 hours, with limited travel time on the water to maximize every moment spent fishing. Most of your time will be spent aboard one of our four poling skiffs, where anglers take turns casting from the platform at the bow as your guide poles the skiff and spots fish. Although walk and wade can make for a very memorable outing when the stars align, be prepared to get your feet wet, if you're up for it!

Early in the season, expect to see tailing and blitzing fish as striped bass actively feed in the shallows. As the season progresses, you'll encounter large schools of flashing fish, creating incredible opportunities for sight fishing. For those who want to explore deeper or more structured waters, our Mako boat allows access to prime areas beyond the reach of the skiffs.

This tool allows anglers to fish more traditional methods with sinking lines or bait and switch.

With the expertise of our guides, you'll focus on the best fishing grounds each day, ensuring a memorable and productive adventure on the water.

IMPORTANT THINGS TO KNOW:

- Our skiffs are trailered which allows us to select the best area for fishing every day. Travel time can be anywhere from 10 minutes to an hour.
- Our ability to go out on the ocean is weather dependent. Be ready to pivot to a day of fishing on a river or a pint at the local brewpub if the weather turns.

WHAT TO EXPECT: BROOK TROUT

Pursuing native sea-run brook trout in the Gaspé Peninsula is an adventure that combines challenging conditions with breathtaking rewards. The prime season for these elusive fish runs from mid-July to the end of August, when they return to the rivers from the sea.

Fishing for brook trout here often takes you deep into the backcountry, exploring remote stretches of water far off the beaten path. This experience is not for the faint of heart, but the effort is well worth it—many anglers liken it to the wild, pristine fishing found in New Zealand.

Expect a full day on the water. Your guides will navigate the journey, whether it's wading through rugged terrain or fishing from a canoe, as you chase after the thrill of sight fishing for these vibrant, hard-fighting trout.

This is an unforgettable experience for those who crave both the challenge and the solitude of backcountry fishing, where each cast brings the potential for a trophy brook trout in truly wild surroundings.

IMPORTANT THINGS TO KNOW:

- We're committed to the conservation of our native Brook Trout, so all catches are carefully released back into the water to ensure healthy fish populations for years to come.
- To safeguard the wellbeing of the fish, we pause fishing when water temperatures exceed 68°F (20°C).
- Certain rivers have unweighted fly requirements, while others are a true no-mans-land experience.
- Expect a physically demanding day if you're searching for Brookies.

GASPESIAN GRAND SLAM?

A TYPICAL SEASON

JUNE: June is prime time for skinny water striped bass fishing, tailing and blitzing are common. The action is in full swing. Early June is time to target the fish of a thousand casts. The right cast can bring you a unicorn Atlantic Salmon. Mid to late June marks the peak of the salmon run as the bulk of the fish make their way into the rivers. June is too early to target brookies.

JULY: As runoff subsides, water levels drop, creating ideal conditions for dry fly fishing for salmon. Fresh salmon continue to run, while striped bass fishing remains exceptional. Stripers spread out across the flats, open water, and rocky structures. By this time, the sea-run trout fishery also begins to pick up.

AUGUST: This month often delivers the best weather, making it a fantastic time for stripers fishing. Salmon fishing can be challenging, but fewer anglers on the water mean guides have the flexibility to explore a variety of rivers, including limited-access beats. August also stands out as the prime month for a trout-focused trip.

SEPTEMBER: Autumn rains typically revitalize our salmon rivers, creating excellent opportunities to target large, colored-up fish using two-handed rods and swinging large, vibrant flies. With fewer anglers, September offers a quieter yet highly productive salmon fishing experience. Striped bass begin their annual migration, bringing larger migratory fish back from their northern feeding grounds. The sea-run trout fishery concludes after the first week of September.

YOUR DAY, YOUR PLAN

DAY 1: Beautiful bluebird day with light winds in the morning picking up to moderate winds in the afternoon. A perfect day for striped bass fishing on the flats. To avoid the winds in the afternoon, your guide decides to start the day earlier.

5am You grab a cup of Joe and one of chef's delicious and nutritious breakfast sandwiches.

5:30am Your guide meets you at the lodge and you head off for the day.

6am The skiff is in the water and you start fishing for the day.

2pm You're back at the lodge after a memorable day on the water.

4pm+ Cocktails, Dinner & Bed

DAY 2: Overcast with a slight drizzle. Weather is predicted to clear up later in the week so you decide to go salmon fishing for the day.

7am We fix your eggs how you like them.

8am Your guide meets you at the lodge and you hop in their vehicle to float the Bonaventure River.

9am You start your float.

4pm+ Back to the lodge for cocktails, dinner & bed.

No one can predict the weather so we recommend coming to the Gaspé with an open mind. Flexible anglers that are willing to take advantage of the best performing fishery are apt to get the most out of their trip. That's the beauty of the Gaspé - three distinctly different fisheries that all perform differently through the summer and the myriad of weather conditions that we get from June to September.

FOR THE GEAR HEADS

Atlantic Salmon

- Both single hand (#7-9) and Spey rods (#6-8, 11'-13'6") are used for Atlantic Salmon fishing.
- Although not a necessity, Spey rods are appreciated typically in the Spring and the Fall or in high water conditions. We prefer single hand rods as the water levels drop.
- Lines must all be floating.
- A good selection of Poly leaders can be useful in high water scenarios.
- Leaders depend on water levels and color, but are typically a rods length and tapered down to 10-12lbs.

Striped Bass

- Single hand rods are used for Stripers (#7-9)
- Flats specific floating lines are used for the flats (think Tropical Flats!)
- Our flats fishery is akin to Bone fishing. We use small baitfish and shrimp patterns measuring 3/4" - 1.5" on long leaders (10-12ft) tapering down to 10-12lbs.
- For fishing deeper structure, intermediate and sinking lines can be used. We fish a more traditional New England style, throwing big flies and sometimes integrating bait & switch.

Brook Trout

- Single hand rods (#4-6) are recommended.
- All floating lines required.
- Traditional trout flies (woolly bugger, zonker, etc.) are used on long leaders tapering down to 6-8lbs.
- It is important to have a selection of unweighted flies for the area with restrictions.
